

The Royal Hospital in Chelsea.

PHOTO: COURTESY OF THE TREASURE HOUSE FAIR

The Artful Life: 6 Things Galerie Editors Love This Week

From the Leslie-Lohman Museum's Pride Month fashion collaboration to the Treasure House art and design fair in London

BY GALERIE EDITORS

JUNE 25, 2024

1. Dom Pérignon Launches New Vintages with a Dinner Series in the Hamptons

To debut new vintages of Dom Pérignon, no ordinary cocktail party or simple dinner party will do. Instead, the legendary Champagne house is hosting a series of dinners with renowned Chef Francis Mallmann at a private 25-acre estate in the Hamptons. From July 19 through 21, guests will be able to be among the first to sip the Dom Pérignon Vintage 2015 and Vintage 2006 Plénitude 2 (P2), which will be paired with a tasting menu by the Argentinian chef known for his cooking with live fire. "Taking inspiration from Dom Pérignon's latest creations, I'm thrilled to guide guests through a culinary journey where textures and flavors harmonize in unexpected ways," said Mallmann. "Each dish will be an invitation to explore the nuanced depths of these spectacular vintages." Dom Pérignon Chef de Cave Vincent Chaperon advised on this special experience that will take guests on this journey of the senses, exploring the paradoxical nature of each of these releases. Guests can reserve this one-of-a-kind experience, priced at $4,000 per person, by submitting an inquiry. —Jacqueline Terrebonne

2. The Leslie-Lohman Museum of Art Unveils Pride Month Collaboration

With a history stretching back to 1969, New York's Leslie-Lohman Museum of Art is the world's only museum dedicated to LGBTQIA+ art. This June, the Lower Manhattan institution launched its first fashion collaboration with a bold collection of silk scarfs, t-shirts, and bags in conjunction with brand Travis Taddeo, which has a brick and mortar location near the museum, on Grand Street. (Both locations will carry the line, also available online.) Emblazoned with text from a drawing by Candy Darling, the pieces were released last week with a striking campaign shot by buzzy New York photographer Deonté Lee that took place at the museum and features potent works of art in the background. Proceeds will go towards the Leslie-Lohman's current and future programming. —Geoffrey Montes

3. The Treasure House Fair Kicks Off in London

Located in the historic Royal Hospital Chelsea in London, 70 of the world's top dealers gather to show their finest works, all vetted by independent experts. For six days in late June, the second edition of the fair offers a fascinating mix of art and design. Launched by Thomas Woodham-Smith and Harry Van der Hoorn, the co-founders of the original Masterpiece fair in 2009, the Treasure House concept is positioning itself as a wunderkammer showcasing not only art but fantastic examples of craftsmanship and natural wonders. —Lucy Rees

Café Ginori at Bergdorf Goodman.
PHOTO: COURTESY GINORI 1735

4. Café Ginori Opens at Bergdorf Goodman

Tucked away on the lower level of the New York City shopping staple, the newly opened Café Ginori brings a whimsical and elegant approach to the art of dining and entertaining. Created as a collaboration between Bergdorf Goodman and Italian company Ginori 1735, the craftsmanship of porcelain and power of Italian hospitality are celebrated through this bespoke project. Served on mixed and matched porcelain plates from the brand's Oriente Italiano collection, dishes including beetroot risotto, beef carpaccio, and lobster salad will delight guests as they sip an assortment of teas or refreshing cocktails. —Shelby Black

Paola Lenti Bistrò parasols, Otto poufs, and Telar armchairs installed around the pool at the Longhouse Reserve in East Hampton.
PHOTO: PHILIPPE CHENG

Paola Lenti Harbour sofas, Telar armchairs, and Giro tables with Sciarra tops installed at the Longhouse Reserve breezeway in East Hampton.
PHOTO: PHILIPPE CHENG

5. Paola Lenti Transforms Outdoor Areas at LongHouse Reserve

Across the LongHouse Reserve's bucolic 16 acres, a wonderland of outdoor artworks enliven garden plots bursting with bright green foliage and flowering shrubs. This summer, joining the works by Yoko Ono, Buckminster Fuller, Ai Weiwei, and Daniel Arsham, are more than 100 pieces of Paola Lenti furniture in chic hues of green, turquoise, magenta, and sunny yellow. The vignettes of sofas, armchairs, tables, umbrellas, and poufs occupy glorious spots alongside the pool and pond, as well as in the Breezeway and Pavilion, offering visitors picturesque spots to rest and take in the glorious setting. The furniture brand's eponymous founder selected products harmoniously blend with the art and nature, selecting pieces made using warm woods, like the Giro and Sunset tables, as well as woven Telar chairs and plush Vespucci sofas. "LongHouse is a union of art and nature, with a mission to inspire living with art in all forms," said LongHouse Director Carrie Reborá Barratt. —Jill Sieracki

LDV at the Maidstone.
PHOTO: LETIZIA CIGLIATTI

LDV at the Maidstone.
PHOTO: LETIZIA CIGLIATTI

6. LDV Hospitality Reimagines The Maidstone Hotel in East Hampton

The landmark Maidstone Hotel has been reimagined by the LDV Hospitality team—bringing Italian flair to East Hampton. Staying true to the historical elements of the property, Poonam Khanna of Unionworks brought a fresh look by adding natural tones, Frette linens, and products by Santa Maria Novella. The renovated retreat now has a restaurant under the direction of Chef Jorge Espinoza of Scarpetta featuring classic coastal dishes such as squid ink linguine with crabmeat, as well as a charming boutique tucked in the garden with goods from Giulivia Heritage and Tata Harper Skincare. Take a pit stop at Gucci's Airstream, which offers complimentary coffees from Wednesday to Sunday all summer long. —Stefanie Li